Farmstead Collectibles SIte Update List

- The shop should grab more than one product per request and save it into an array that increases in size, similarly product data would be generated into parallel arrays to display.

- The order form page should be changed accordingly to allow many items to be displayed with accurate information. Ordering more than 1 item should be addressed.

- On both the shop and the form there should be a drop down for selecting a number of items, this will determine the quantity of said item.

- On form completion all data sent to a server should be adjusted for accordingly on the way to account for more information and varying quantities.
